Revving up the engine for international growth

1H2O above expectations, with +17% yoy sales growth and margin expansion On Monday, Pharmanutra reported its 1H20 results, which came out above expectations, with higher than expected margins and in line cash generation. The company reported sales at €29m, up 17% YoY, driven by international business, which grew by 57% YoY, while domestic business was up 5%, more penalized by mobility restrictions imposed to salesforce. Adj. EBITDA came in at €9.4m, up 49%% YoY and 24% ahead of MBe. Adj. EBITDA margin expanded by 7pp to 32.3%, as the company benefitted from c.€2m cost savings related to lower marketing and event sponsorship expenses, which may be considered as non-recurring. Net profit came out at €9.7m vs €9.1m MBe, more than doubling YoY thanks to the patent box benefit announced in June (c.€4.1m positive one-off). Excluding this item, adj. net profit stood at €5.6m, up 40% YoY. Net cash stood at €13.1m vs €13.8m MBe, slightly declining compared to €13.6m reported in FY19, as it factors c.€4.5m of dividend payment in 1H20.

Entry into foreign key markets to fuel growth acceleration

As regards the outlook, the management sees FY20E revenues expanding YoY, even though at a pace slightly below previous years' levels. Current trading is improving, as July/August domestic sales were recorded in line with pre-covid targets and orders for the international business referring to 2H volumes are fully confirmed. 2H profitability is seen in line with 1H trend, as the company should continue to benefit from the same non-recurring cost savings. At the same time, international expansion is set to accelerate further over the coming years, as the company anticipated to be negotiating distribution agreements to enter into 8 new countries. These should include also Germany, which has always been considered of strategic relevance, given the size of oral iron supplement market (which could be similar to the Italian one). Besides, PHN stated that it plans to open its own branch in Spain and start the distribution of Cetilar and Ultramag products, complementing distribution agreements for Sideral product line already in place for this market. Furthermore, the company is proceeding with the translisting process from AIM to STAR segment of Italian Stock Exchanges, whose completion is expected to come by year-end.

FY20E EBITDA raised by 30%. Outperform confirmed, new TP of €28.4/share

Following the release, we raised our FY20E estimates to reflect the better-thanexpected 1H trend reported. We slightly increased our sales growth forecast to 12% from previous 10%, assuming a 9% YoY increase in 2H20E, with FY20E EBITDA margin now seen a touch above 30%. On cash generation, we factor in the delay in capex for the construction of the new site, projecting a €23m net cash position in FY20E. Going forward, we left broadly unchanged our growth estimates over FY21-22E, assuming a 14% CAGR with EBITDA margin gradually normalizing close to 25%, as we conservatively do not factor in the potential contribution from a successful entry into key new markets. We updated our valuation obtained as a simple average of DCF and a peers' multiple approach, which now releases a €28.4 TP from previous €27.6. Based on our new estimates, the stock trades at 20x '21 PE and 12x '21 EV/EBITDA. We confirm the Outperform rating as we believe that PHN may keep outperforming the Italian Mid-Small Caps cluster thanks to 1) its leading positioning in a fast-growing niche, 2) its resilient business model Source: Mediobanca Securities delivering sustainable double-digit growth and 3) its unlevered balance sheet.
